

Contributors to this Issue

KAMLESH K. BAJAJ is Director, National Informatics Centre, New Delhi, India.

IAN COOK is Senior Lecturer in Politics and International Studies, Murdoch University, Perth, Australia.

HANSPETER GASSMANN is a consultant and former Head, OECD Information, Computer and Communications Policy and Industry Divisions, Paris, France.

ALASTAIR GREIG is Senior Lecturer, School of Social Sciences, Australian National University, Canberra, Australia and Senior Associate, AEGIS, University of Western Sydney, Macarthur, Australia.

RICHARD JOSEPH is Associate Professor, Telecommunications Management Program, Murdoch University, Perth, Australia.

MARY SANDOW-QUIRK is a Lecturer, Department of Information Systems, University of Melbourne, Australia.

J. P. SINGH is Professor of Communication, Culture and Technology at Georgetown University, Washington, DC, USA.

ALFONS VAN DER KRAAN is Senior Lecturer in Economic History, University of New England, Armidale, Australia.